There have been so many requests for a repetition of the stereopticon lecture on the Hawaiian Islands, that it will be given next Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, at the Universalist church. The stereopticon placed at it was last Sunday evening, outside of the building gives strong, clear pictures and makes no disturbing noises.

There are 65 good views of the islands, made by Miss Libby from views sent to Miss Agnes Deal by Miss Stevens, the daughter of the United States minister to the islands, who was the Rev. John L. Stevens, a former pastor of the Norway Universalist church. The descriptions are from letters from Miss Stevens, Stephen B. Cummings, who prepared the lecture won high praise for his excellent work.

It is the story of one man falling in love with another's wife, showing the schemes and the tricks whereby she and her husband are both deceived. For a time the man succeeds in turning her against her husband until by the aid of one of her friends the scene is changed, the man is killed, and all ends happily.

C., No. 45, are to meet at the Baptist church on Saturday afternoon, May 24, at 8 p. m., to consult on a matter which relates to the Divine service which will be observed at this church on the following day at 8.30 p. m. Sing.

Have you trials or a grievance? Sing. Sing. Sing.

To the world sing songs of gladness, And the heart will cease its sadness, While you sing, Sing. Sing. Sing.

On life's common way together, Sing. Sing. Sing.

While the hours are swiftly flying, And the flowers are fading, dying, And the saddened heart is sighing, Sing. Sing. Sing.

The last song of the swan is sweetest, Sing. Sing. Sing.

Sing, as sing brighter in spring-time, Singing through the merry June-time, Singing ever merry bird rhyme, Sing. Sing. Sing.

Singing drives away all worry, Gladly sing.

While the world is busy toiling, And for gain and greed is scrambling, And the gossipers are gabbling, Sing. Sing. Sing.

Though the voice no tune can master, Sing. Sing. Sing.

From the soul with words of kindness, Lighten hearts of evil mind-ness, Raise the fallen in their blindness, Sing. Sing. Sing.

To the world ring out sweet music, Gaily sing.

Oh, 'twill lighten many a sorrow, Waiting for a brighter day, When the heart no grief can borrow, Sing. Sing. Sing.

Easy to Die.

Death does not hurt. Only the unnatural images of it cause distress, and for that reason Dr. Howard A. Knox, an assistant surgeon of the United States Public Health Service at Ellis Island, thinks mankind not to take death so seriously.

Fear of death is simply a nervous disease—a phobia which he thinks should be overcome. It merely means the emigration to other shores.

Like the fear of ghosts and the morbid fear of death is frequently implanted in the childish mind by unthinking older persons; therefore we ought never to depict death and the grave, either to ourselves or to others, especially to children, in more sombre colors than really belong to them.

Gloomy images of this kind serve only to disturb the imagination and exercise a baneful influence over the impressionable mind of the child. These influences are generally permanent, for we know that many otherwise level headed adults are somewhat disturbed by stories of the supernatural and these persons may step from dark cellars at night with more haste than grace.

"This phobia in some cases is due to nothing more remote than a sedentary existence with too much time for reflection, and frequently seen in unmarried persons who are too much alone and have no absorbing hobby. Exercise, work, amusement and congenial companionship will do more than the best consolatory argument and suggestion.

The dying are as little conscious of the transition from life to death as the weary are of the transition from the waking to the sleeping state. Many persons have waited with full consciousness the moment of dissolution and have been aware of it in advance, and yet they fell asleep smiling and without fear. Their imagination had not been previously excited. Illness may be painful, but its cessation, never."

Dr. Knox closes his article with the words of St. Paul, who asked of the grave where its victory, of death its sting.

Parents, Read this Letter!

I have a letter from a prominent Maine clergyman in regard to a sickness of one of his children from which I quote as follows:

"Our two-year-old baby was very sick at two different times and we came near losing her. We had the best doctors, but they did not know what the trouble was. In the first sickness she had high fever for several days, and the doctor said it acted like scarlet fever, but there were no other cases he did not think it could be. Afterwards she broke out in a rash all over her body. The last sickness was similar and the doctor was puzzled. She was very nervous and we feared we would lose her. Your Dr. True's Elixir was recommended, and after two days' use she passed several worms from two to three inches in length, and is now well and strong and sleeps at nights without fretting, tossing and starting in a fright as she did formerly."

I will be glad to furnish this clergyman's name and address to anyone who cares to write to me.

N.B.—True's Elixir is the best known remedy for all stomach and bowel troubles. Purely vegetable, pleasant to take and entirely harmless. Expels stomach worms and pin worms. All dealers, 35c; 50c; $1.00.

Yours for better health,

Dr. True

Now Put Up Bird Houses.

Now is the time to put up bird houses and nesting boxes. It would have been better to erect them last fall with a little warm material in the bottom of each, so that woodpeckers, nuthatches or other birds could find warmth and shelter during the long, cold winter nights. But where English sparrows are numerous they usually find and occupy such boxes in the winter, fill them with nesting material early in the spring and drive native birds away. If the boxes are put up now the native birds will have some chance to keep the sparrows out.

Let no one fail to put up bird boxes because of the expense. Any boy can make them and the material needed costs little if anything. The bluebird, martin, tree swallow, wren, flicker, chickadee, screech owl, and wood duck all nest naturally in hollow trees or cavities in tree limbs.

A hollow branch, five or more inches inside diameter, trimmed from an apple tree may be made into several excellent nesting boxes by sawing it in sections each a foot or more long, nailing on each section a piece of board or shingle for a roof, plugging the bottom, cutting a hole on one side near the top for the entrance and fastening it upright to a tree, a building or pole. Old tomato cans, small milk cans and even flower pots may be used in a similar manner if they are put up in the shade; otherwise the sun will overheat the young birds. A few shingles, bits of boards or any elongated small wooden box like a deep cigar box will make a nesting box that will last for one season or more. Pieces of slabs from the sawmill, nailed together to form a rectangular box, with height greater than width, will make an attractive rustic bird home.

Nesting boxes may be constructed from bark, if provided with a solid bottom and top to nail the bark on. Every nesting box should be made as

"THE GREATEST KIDNEY REMEDY ON EARTH" SAYS A GRATEFUL WOMAN

I want to tell you how much good your Swamp-Root did me. About four years ago I suffered from what the doctors called catarrh and for two years of that time I endured what no tongue can tell. I also had inflammation of the bladder and I tried doctor's medicines without receiving any help. Someone told me about Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root.

After giving it a thorough trial, I received relief, so kept on using it and today I am a strong and well woman. If I ever feel badly or out of sorts, I take Swamp-Root and it always straightens me out. I honestly believe that this medicine cures all troubles you reason me to use it for and it is a pleasure for me to send my testimony and photograph to you. I think Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is one of the greatest medicines on earth.

Respectfully yours,

MRS. JOHN BAILY,

Good Everyday Breakfasts.

Perhaps because of the energy of the cereal diet, the American breakfast table is discarding meats and hot breads and substituting fruits and grains. Here are menus for half a dozen breakfasts where heavy meats are omitted. These may not exactly suit any housekeeper, but will serve to call to her attention certain foods and ways of varying this meal, writes Anna Barrows a former Fryeburg girl.

1. Grapefruit, hot cereal with dates, salt codfish, creamed baked potatoes, Boston brown bread.

2. Hot baked apples, corn cereal, broiled bacon, rye muffins.

3. Oatmeal with prunes, cottage pie, toast.

4. Bananas, hominy or corn mush, poached eggs on toast in hot water.

5. Cracked wheat or graham mush, stewed rhubarb, broiled finnan haddie, muffins.

6. Oranges, creamed chicken on toast, fried hominy with syrup.

Let us consider these in detail. Each consists of fruit, cereal, meat or fish and bread; but there are reasons for the special groupings in each case.

The fruits represented are suitable for winter and spring. Often to meet the tastes of all members of the family, two may be served each morning. Some may prefer to omit the grapefruit and will find the cereal with dates appetizing. Hot baked apples are more appetizing on a cold morning. Orange marmalade and other jams and stewed fruits are acceptable at breakfast.

The list of cereals available is a long one from the grocer's standpoint, but all these are but varied forms of corn, oats, rice, wheat and sometimes barley and rye. Samp, hominy, cracked wheat and coarse oatmeal are going out of our markets rapidly, yet when properly cooked have better flavor than most of the finer forms, but must be started the previous day.

Legs generally are the favorite breakfast meat in late winter and early spring and may be varied in many ways—that is another story. Bacon, with eggs or alone, is always popular.

Broiled finnan haddie is a delicious morsel; it should not be too dry, and may be soaked a short time in hot water before broiling under the gas or over the coals, like any other fish. Salt codfish usually needs soaking overnight or longer. The water may be changed several times. Then only bring it to the boiling point and drain, rinse and add to it white sauce or cream.

An early start is needed to secure good baked potatoes, and they should not be expected often for breakfast. Medium-sized ones will bake in half an hour in a portable oven on top of a gas stove. They may stand in hot water while the oven is heating; then drain and put in the oven.

The cottage pie may appear when fish or meat and mashed potatoes are left from yesterday's dinner. The meat is freed from skin and bones, is moistened and seasoned. Then it is put in a deep pie plate and the mashed potato is heaped irregularly on top. This might be done the night before. In the morning it should be put in the oven long enough to heat through and to brown the potato somewhat. Of course this is only a variation on hash, but is a very satisfactory dish.

The muffins, like baked potatoes, require considerable time for preparation; hence in many households these appear at lunch rather than at breakfast. Toast is suitable and acceptable to most persons at this meal.

The Boston brown bread may be toasted or restamed. If several loaves are made at one time they will keep for days and may be served with other toast or in alternative.

Griddle cakes have their place, but not every morning. The fried cereal is quite as desirable in many respects. Doughnuts may appear occasionally.

But after all, it is not so much the variety of food in separate dishes as the different mornings that we need to seek for, as that each article shall be of good quality and well prepared.

KEY BURTS.

Helen Hodsdon of Salem Normal School has been home for a vacation.

H. D. E. Hutobins is adding a porch and other improvements to his residence.

Anna Barrows is conducting a class in domestic science for young ladies of Fryeburg Academy.

Blanche Yanawine, who has just completed a business course at Gray's Business College, has come to Fryeburg, where she will pass the summer as the guest of her sister, Mrs. Frank Thomas, at the Argonne hotel.

In an exhibition of the Portland Society of Art the pencil drawings of George L. Noyes of Fryeburg, are claiming particular attention; the work is unique and peculiar in style. Beautiful landscapes are so exquisitely done in ordinary lead pencil that they appear as photo engravings of high quality. To quote an authority: "Nothing just like the works of Mr. Noyes has ever been shown in Portland."

Margaret L. Mundt.

The community was greatly saddened to hear of the sudden death of Margaret L. Mundt, the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred A. Mundt which occurred Monday night, May 12th.

About two weeks before she had an attack of the prevailing epidemic of measles, during which time she suffered from severe hemorrhages of the head, but she had so far recovered as to be able to go out of doors, and no doubts were entertained by either her physician or family as to her ultimate recovery.

Monday evening she felt about the usual time and during the early part of the night complained of a headache and nausea. Her mother immediately went to her and remained by her side. She at last dropped peacefully asleep from which she never awoke.

Margaret, who had just passed her 13th birthday, was a bright, sunny dispositioned girl, much beloved by her friends, teacher, and schoolmates, to all of whom her death came as a terrible shock.

Funeral services were held at the M. E. Church in Mason, where Margaret often attended Sabbath school, Thursday p. m. at 2 o'clock. Comforting words were spoken by the Rev. Mr. Chapman of Bethel Village. Seldom have we seen such a large and varied display of floral tributes. It was as if she was sleeping amid a profusion of fragrant roses, violet, pinks, and sweet peas.

We think the sick ones are improving.

Don't Forget the Horse.

When you go to the field on a hot day you take some drinking water along for yourself, but how about the horses? They get more thirsty in drawing the plow than you do in holding it, and they feel the need of a drink as much as you do. So put some in the wagon for them, too, if it's only a bucketful between them. They will not be so likely to overdrink when they get back to the stable for dinner.

When Your Plow Needs Fixing.

A method of making tongs to hold plowshares is described by a correspondent of the Blacksmith and Wheelwright as follows: First make one side of the tongs to fit on the share, Fig. 1, same as the land bar, with a hole that corresponds with the hole in the share on the land side, and make the other jaw of the tongs as an ordinary flat top with a pin, so that when the handles are pressed together the pin will go through the hole in the land side of the share and the other jaw of the tongs. The jaw on handle A, Fig. 2, must fit the same as the land bar. With these tongs I hold my shares just as if a land bar were bolted on.

At the forenoon session on Thursday a novel case for Oxford County was heard, being a suit brought by the town of Rumford against the Boston Grocery Co., on a bond for $100 given by the defendant on its license to run a pool room. The plaintiff claims that the conditions of the license, that gambling and drinking should not be allowed, and that the place should close at 10 o'clock, had been violated. In defense it was argued that the defendant had sub-leased the rooms and fixtures soon after obtaining the license, and was not responsible for the management. Judge Spear ordered a verdict for the plaintiff, and the case will go to the law court, J. B. Stevenson for plaintiff; Albert Beliveau for defendant.

On account of the suspension of business by the Corn Packing Company, Theo Green will soon return to her Portland home.

Mrs. Maude Flint of Norway, on her return from a trip to Bridgton, made an agreeable call on Mrs. Elsie and Lena York and Mrs. May Howard at Oak Lodge.

Comrade W. W. Watson relates an interesting incident of a chance meeting of himself and two other comrades who had not been together since they parted in New Orleans 50 years ago. The reunion happened at Lamb's barber shop in Harrison last week. They were W. W. Watson of South Waterford, Dexter P. Brown of Harrison and John Monroe of Mechanic Falls; Waterford boys who enlisted in 1861 in Capt. M. M. Robinson's Company G, 12th Maine Infantry, and served in a great Division of New England troops in the Department of the Gulf under Gen. Butler. John Monroe was a 16 year old drummer boy and got sick after a few months of southern service and was in hospital several months and finally discharged from service.

Dexter Brown was promoted sergeant, was in strenuous service in the Department with the 12th Maine, and at the battle of Port Hudson, La., intercepted a rebel bullet and was put out of service and consequently discharged for disability. Comrade Watson, after nearly two years of service in the South, came North with his regiment and was in the campaign of 1864 in the Shenandoah valley, under Gen. Sherman, and was wounded at the battle of Winchester, West Virginia, Sept. 19, 1864. Talking over those old times is what made the chance interview so interesting.

When in Doubt pass a Law. In the course of an interesting discussion in the department called "The Interpreter's House," in the May American Magazine, appears the following: When some thing happens that we do not like, what is the first thing we say? There ought to be a law against it. Every time! That is the unconscious tribute we all pay to the queerest, the most naive and stupid superstition in a world where all superstition is hard enough that all you need to do to stop anything is to pass a law against it.

"No amount of experience, apparently, will free the minds of men from the incubus, the hoodoo, of this extraordinary superstition. No matter what the issue it is to stop gambling, spitting, combinations of capital or of labor, prostitution, colleges fraternities, the high cost of living, arson, saloons, monopoly in restraint of trade, the turkey trot, burglary, dips, walking on the grass, whatever it is, there is only one thing to do—pass a law against it. Then everybody will be contented; everybody will believe that the offense, will cease at once, or at least as soon as you have gotten a sufficient number of people in jail. Only get enough laws passed, and above all, if you can only get enough people in jail, you have realized the average man's millennial hopes."

Religion and Medicine

S. B. HARTMAN, M. D.
Is there any intimate relation between religion and medicine?
Yes, there is. The old-time healer was also the priest. Theology and medicine have not maintained a separate existence very long. They used to be one. Yes, there is an intimate relation between religion and medicine.
It is well known of a person who eats with unthankfulness and ill-natured spirit, that his food will not have the same effect as if he were in a kindly mood. The same is true of medicine. If a person swallows a medicine with suspicion, has no faith in its action, is more or less afraid of the one who gives him the medicine, it cannot do him as much good as if he had unwavering faith in it.
The mind has a wonderful influence over the body. Those who believe that a loving Father controls the destiny of mankind are a great deal better prepared to meet the vicissitudes of life and to overcome disease than the one who has no such faith. A truly religious man makes a better patient than an irreligious man.

In using the word religion I am not referring to any particular kind of religion. The Jew and the Gentile, the Catholic and the Protestant, each have a religion in which they believe. They also agree in the essentials.
A religious man may believe that it is necessary for him to use every means in his power to get well. He may believe that it is perfectly proper for him to employ doctors and take medicines. But he also believes that when he has done the best he can there is a higher power that has charge of his affairs, that absolute justice will be done him, that no evil thing can befall a good man. He goes forward with confidence, sick or well, rich or poor, and gets a great deal more comfort out of life than the man who has no religion.
I have found myself saying many times to people who have a chronic ailment, "You need religion as well as medicine. You need faith in an overruling providence that guides everything to wise ends; that the affliction of disease teaches a lesson that every one should strive to learn."
This does not mean that sick people are to sit down and trust that an overruling providence will do everything. Nothing of the sort. He is to use remedies guided by his best judgment, but in the use of them he can believe that all things are well and that in the end all things will come out right. Any medicine has a better chance to cure a man who holds such a faith.
Some men are, so faithless and unbelieveing, so restless and desperate, their minds so unsettled, that even the best of medicine has little chance to do them any good. Therefore I say that religion is often quite as necessary as medicine, that the want of religion frequently defeats the action of the best medicine.

Many a chronic invalid has searched in vain for a physical remedy simply because he has lost his grip on vital religion, the religion that not only provides salvation in the world to come, but soundness of body and mind in the world that is.
Yes, there is a most intimate relation between medicine and religion. Other things being equal, the irreligious man stands a poor chance of getting well when he is sick, while the religious man frequently gets well in the most astonishing way after the doctors have all given him up to die. With a firm faith in a rational religion and an obedient use of its right remedy, a great many hopeless invalids could be restored to perfect health.
Well, you have made it clear as to what you mean by religion. But what is the remedy you would recommend?
Of course I would recommend different remedies for different conditions. But the particular remedy that I suggest is that of KATHARNO, manufactured by KATHARNO COMPANY, Columbus, Ohio. Write them and they will be pleased to send you a free booklet.
SPECIAL NOTICE—Many persons are making inquiries for the old-time remedy. To such would say, this formula is now put out under the name of KATHARNO, manufactured by KATHARNO COMPANY, Columbus, Ohio. Write them and they will be pleased to send you a free booklet.

Work in our School District.

Within the past few years Norway and Waterford have joined forces and have engaged a superintendent for their public schools. The present superintendent is True C. Morrill, who was elected superintendent by the school committees of the two towns, and began his work here in January 1912.
Mr. Morrill is the son of Hon. A. D. Morrill of Gray. Previous to his taking up his duties here, he taught Science in the High School at Gardner, and previous to that was an instructor at Bridgton Academy.
Mr. Morrill's work in the public schools here has been very commendable, and through his efforts, much has been accomplished. Grading and systematizing the work in the grades has taken considerable of his time. The teachers as well as the pupils are now enjoying the benefits of the new organization. All of the grades are following a routine of study. The texts to be used in each study and amount of time devoted to each is clearly designated for each term. This specified schedule includes the teachers in the rural districts as well as in the villages. It enables her to cover more work, and gives her a fuller understanding of the duties required of her, at the same time giving the scholars of the district schools an equal opportunity with the scholars of the city schools.
It has become evident from the work of students entering secondary schools that not enough attention has been given to language work in the common schools. In order to remedy this defect a recitation schedule has been carefully figured on a percentage basis whereby language has been given a slight advantage over the other five major studies. In order for the work in the schools to be uniform, it is quite necessary that the pupils be uniform and carefully chosen as to grading. Already the texts used in the following studies are the same in both towns:—geography, history, arithmetic, language and spelling. The old texts as fast as displaced are used to obtain exchange rates on the new books purchased.
The course of study is printed on loose leaves after correction at the end of each year. This work is done by the superintendent at his office by means of a mimeograph.
Mr. Morrill has introduced the National School System, which is ideal in keeping the attendance, scholarship, promotion, transfer and other facts concerning the pupils. A card is kept at the superintendent's office for each pupil who is registered at the schools and contains the following information:—name, place of birth, certified date of birth, vaccination, name of parent or guardian, occupation, former place of residence, school last attended, grade last attended, date of discharge, age, last place of residence including residence of district where pupil is transferred. On the other side of the card is the date of admission, grade, age, room, changes, present health, conduct and scholarship. A similar card is made out and given to the teacher containing the entrance of the pupil to the school and is transferred to the next teacher upon the promotion of the pupil.
An attendance and scholarship card is given each pupil, a duplicate of which is required in the teacher's register. This gives the rank of the pupil in his different studies, together with the rank for each term, and the final rank for the year ending in June. This card is taken to the parent as each month's rank is given, and returned to the teacher with the parent's signature, signifying that they have seen it. The signature does not signify the approval of rank, but merely that the parent has seen the card.
The school year begins in September, when the pupils begin their respective grades. The pupils entering the first or primer grade in the spring must begin the same place with those entering school in the fall, as that is when the year's work begins, at the beginning of the year in September, and not in the spring.
Another new system which Mr. Morrill has introduced is the school census. A card is filled out bearing the names of parents or guardians and the names of the children of school age, from 5 to 21 years. These cards serve as a check against the omission of names from the census, as the common school money obtained from the state each year is allotted each town in proportion to the number persons in town of school age. The card index eliminates many omissions that would otherwise undoubtedly be made. Each town receives between $3 and $4 each year for each person of school age. Last year the rate paid was $3.71.
From the Journal of Education of May 8, 1913, the following is taken:
"From time immemorial the school register has been an indispensable adjunct of any well organized school. Hereafter it will not be found in any well organized school. It has gone to keep company with the tallow candle, through-stage, the 'one-boss' shay,' and other curiosities of our grandfathers."
"The card index has supplanted it. When a child enters the public school, at the very bottom even, he is enrolled on a card ruled for all vital and otherwise important statistics. That card follows him from grade to grade till he leaves school, even to graduation from the High School, and then it is put in cold storage, so to speak, and will be ready to function if any facts about him are needed when he is forty, fifty, or sixty."

After Long Suffering

Women Are Constantly Being Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Worth mountains of gold," says one woman. Another says, "I would not give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for all the other medicines for women in the world." Still another writes, "I should like to have the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound thrown on the sky with a searchlight so that all suffering women could read and be convinced that there is a remedy for their ills."
We could fill a newspaper ten times the size of this with such quotations taken from the letters we have received from grateful women whose health has been restored and suffering banished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
Why has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound accomplished such a universal success? Why has it lived and thrived and kept on doing its glorious work among the sick women of the world for more than 30 years?

Simply and surely because of its sterling worth. The reason no other medicine has ever approached its success is plainly and simply because there is no other medicine so good for women's ills.
Here are two letters that just came to the writer's desk, two of thousands, but both tell a comforting story to every suffering woman who will read them—and be guided by them.

FROM MRS. D. H. BROWN.

Iola, Kansas.—"During the Change of Life I was sick for two years. Before I took your medicine I could not bear the weight of my clothes and was bloated very badly. I doctored with three doctors but they did me no good. They said nature must have its way. My sister advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I purchased a bottle. Before it was gone the bloating left me and I was not so sore. I continued taking it until I had taken 12 bottles. Now I am stronger than I have been for years and can do all my work, even the washing. Your medicine is worth its weight in gold. I cannot praise it enough. If more women would take your medicine there would be more healthy women. You may use this letter for the good of others."
Mrs. D. H. Brown, 809 North Walnut Street, Iola, Kan.

MRS. WILLIAMS SAYS:

Elkhart, Ind.—"I suffered for 14 years from organic inflammation, female weakness, pain and irregularities. The pains in my sides were increased by walking or standing on my feet and I had such awful bearing down feelings, was depressed in spirits and became thin and pale with dull, heavy eyes. I had six doctors from whom I received only temporary relief. I decided to give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial and also the Sanative Wash. I have now used the remedies for four months and cannot express my thanks for what they have done for me.—Mrs. SADIE WILLIAMS, 455 James Street, Elkhart, Indiana."

Cheap Paint.

The cheapest paint is the one that goes farthest and wears best; there is most in a gallon of it.
What is a quart of milk worth? Depends on the milk.
So of paint; depends on the paint.
Devos is worth the top price, whatever it is. Poor paint is worth nothing at all; you've got to pay your painter $3 or $4 a gallon for putting it on; and it isn't worth it.
Devos goes twice as far and wears twice or three times or four times as long.
The cheap paint is Devos at the top of the market.
